If you are submitting multiple files, Sheridan encourages you to compress them before submitting them to an FTP site (whether it is your own FTP site or Sheridan's FTP site). Compressing files improves uploading/downloading times and reduces file transfer errors over FTP sites, email, etc.

Files can be compressed using various types of software. Sheridan uses the compression software called WinZip for Windows. WinZip is a utility software for file compression, file sharing, file encryption, and data back up. WinZip organizes multiple files into a small, manageable package. Zip files retain folder structures and file relations as you zip and unzip. When transferring zip files, the transfer results in a smaller file size that is self-contained in the zipped compression folder.

WinZip has a free evaluation download available. Start your download at the following site: <http://softdls.com/winzip>.

The following is a quick overview of WinZip software with basic instructions on how to zip multiple files. The instructions may vary depending on what version of WinZip you purchased.

The image below shows the interface of WinZip upon opening. To create a new zip file, click on the Zip icon in the upper left corner of window.
